P.P. Rubens pinxit. B. Baron sculpsit Londini.

ACHILLES IN STYGEM MERSUS.

Thetis, Lacheſi facem gerente comitata, Achillem pede altero prehenſum in Stygiæ paludis aquas, quibus adverſus vulnera præmuniatur, mergit. Columnæ alteri Pluto cum bicorni furcâ, alteri Proſerpina imprimitur. Tabulæ partem ſuperiorem pervolitant veſpertiliones; mediam arx Plutonis et Charontis cymba manes trajiciens obtinet; imam Cerberus triceps tuetur.

ACHILLES DIP'T IN STYX.

Thetis attended & lighted by ye Destiny Lachesis dipp's her son Achilles in ye river Styx, holding him by one foot to make him invulnerable. On one of the pillars, Pluto is drawn with his pitch-fork; & Proserpine on the other. Bats are seen flying on the top of the picture in the middle Pluto's castle and Charon ferrying over the dead; at the bottom the three headed Cerberus.

Niedersächsisches Ministerium für Wissenschaft und Kultur

© HAUM, Foto: U.Mangholz, 03/2019 (CC BY-NC-ND 4.0) - http://kk.haum-bs.de/?id=baron-b-ab2-0010