

Gunhilda, Empress of Germany, daughter of Canute King of England, having been accused of adultery and treated as guilty by the Emperor, is defended by her Page, who in a public combat slays her accuser. After which she refuses to be reconciled to her Husband, & determines to retire into a Monastery.

See Spott & Caricature, 1768.

Engraved by J. Boydell, Engraver in Chancery 1761.

