

Engraved by John Wynn

But Heaven keeps her past in eternal life,
And thus your soul's peace, like yours, is made;
For here you lie, who should be buried,
And thus you lie, who should be buried,
And thus you lie, who should be buried.

SHAKSPEARE.
Hamlet and Ophelia.
ACT IV. SCENE V.

But Heaven keeps her past in eternal life,
And thus your soul's peace, like yours, is made;
For here you lie, who should be buried,
And thus you lie, who should be buried,
And thus you lie, who should be buried.

Engraved by G. S. G. G. G.

Published June 4th 1791 by JOHN S. JOHNSON, at the Shakespeare Gallery, Pall Mall, London.

